From the Rabbi's Desk

In the course of sitting shiva for my father, I came to realize many things—not just about him, but about myself and my family, and about my friends and the shul community. I discovered that so many of us are rarely exposed to the full panoply of observances that constitute shiva, and there are few opportunities to ask questions about what we do or why we do it.

Shiva is the Hebrew number seven—a week of intense mourning, intense emotions, intense physical exhaustion, intense exposure to people while confined within four walls. It's intended to allow you to talk yourself out (often re-telling the same anecdotes again and again), and to get as much of the grief/emotion out as possible, so that when you emerge from shiva you're as ready as you can be to re-enter the outside world—perhaps even welcoming the resumption of some semblance of normalcy.

Rather than wear a torn ribbon, I chose to tear a tie (a really nice one that my son apparently had his eye on: "You're tearing that one??!!"). The ritualized rending of a garment or tearing a ribbon has its origin in people being so overcome emotionally upon learning of the death of a loved one, that they reacted by tearing at their clothing. The torn object is worn only for the duration of shiva, and not on Shabbat. The same time limits apply to wearing non-leather shoes, which are considered a luxury and are also unseemly as they are a product that results from the taking of an animal's life.

When we sit during shiva we do so (not necessarily on back-breaking boxes, but) on a lower level, symbolic of having been "brought low" by death. We learn of this practice from Job. When Job's so-called friends come to comfort him in his grief (in actuality they question his protestations of righteousness), the Bible informs us that "they sat with him on the ground." Over the generations, the superstition has arisen that only the mourners may sit on a lower level or on the shiva chairs/stools ("If you sit on them

From the Chairman

February 26 promises to be a most wonderful evening in the history of the Synagogue. We will have the opportunity to celebrate together as a community, raise funds for our Synagogue and honor a most outstanding couple, Marcia and Geoffrey Colvin

Thank you to Marcia and Geoffrey for agreeing to be the first honorees for our annual fundraising dinner. Our Synagogue needs the dinner, and the Colvins, as they have so many times and in so many ways when asked, responded "Yes, you can count on us." For many years, the money collected from dues, from school tuitions, from our Kol Nidre Appeal, was enough. It isn't any longer. Our main income stream is our membership dues. It is essential to keep our dues at a level that makes belonging to Park Avenue Synagogue possible for all who want to join; however, now membership dues account for only 38% of the Synagogue's operating budget, and demands on the budget have increased. Since the September 11 disaster, life at the Synagogue has changed. There is never a time that our building is open without security personnel present, and our insurance costs continually reflect the new reality. There is no question that school tuitions must remain accessible for our congregants, but to assure that our children have the finest Jewish educators possible, we must pay competitive teachers' salaries.

We also want to continue to be a vital, important part of each of our congregant's lives, and we must be! Together we are all responsible for the survival of Judaism for our own generation and for the generations that follow. We are striving in every way to have Park Avenue Synagogue be for every member the location for their Jewish journey. Through last year's exploration of the ties that bind us to Israel and this year's examination of the spark within us, we are encouraging ourselves to grow as Jews. To achieve this essential objective, there must be countless ways of entry into synagogue life. Some members want to explore the meaning of Judaism in their lives through education, others through music, others through Sunday afternoon family art projects, and yet others through participation in our Mitzvah Day or Project Ezra Hanukkah luncheon. We must make all these possibilities available. It is why we exist.

We need you. We need you to support your Synagogue and to support the dinner. We are all one people, and those who can must help to bear the financial load for those who cannot. With each passing month, as I get to know more people and know more about the daily life of our Synagogue, I am amazed at what happens here, the depth of creativity, commitment, excitement from our clergy, from our staff, from our congregants. Park Avenue Synagogue is an incredible place. I am honored and privileged to be its Chairman and look forward to celebrating with you on the 26th all that Park Avenue was, is and can be.

when you don't have to, soon you will have to...").

The mourners have few responsibilities besides mourning and saying Kaddish. To facilitate this, a variety of "services" are to be provided by friends and other relatives. In addition to paying a shiva visit, it is customary to provide food for the immediate family and a minyan (the shul comes to the mourners) so that Kaddish, a public declaration of faith in God, can be recited within one's home.

What to say to the mourners is always awkward. Very wisely, our tradition teaches us to say nothing. As uncomfortable as the silence may be, when confronted with death, what is there that we can say? We demonstrate our sympathy most appropriately and powerfully by our presence. Rather than mouth platitudes or say something insensitive, we sit quietly until the mourners initiate conversation. It is for the mourners to decide if they want to talk or not; when we pay a shiva call, the mourners' needs take precedence over our innate need to say something to break the silence.

And when visitors leave, we are given a scripted line to say: "May God comfort you among the other mourners for Zion and Jerusalem." I must say that having heard this line numerous times during shiva, I found no comfort in it—because there is nothing adequate that can be said.

However, I was overwhelmed by the expressions of sympathy that were manifested in word and in deed. I take comfort in them, and I thank you for them.

Park Avenue Synagogue Happenings

Ignite "The Spark Within Us" at the First Annual P.A.S. Gala as We Honor Geoffrey & Marcia Eppler Colvin

"Park Avenue Synagogue is a central element in the lives of each of our family members. We have marked many life cycle events at the Synagogue and have developed close friendships with many of its members. We feel truly privileged to be part of such a wonderful community," say Geoffrey and Marcia Eppler Colvin.

Saturday evening, February 26 will be an exciting time here at Park Avenue Synagogue as we gather for a gala celebration honoring two wonderful congregants, Geoffrey and Marcia Eppler Colvin. Don't miss this opportunity to celebrate P.A.S. by coming together as one community to greet old friends, meet new ones, eat, drink, and have a wonderful time together. This celebration will support our Synagogue and all that it means to us, as well as honor two congregants who exemplify the spark within us by their devotion to our Synagogue and our Jewish way of life.

Watch the mail for details and reserve early!

Men's Club: Come to a SUPER Super Bowl Party

For those who love watching the Super Bowl, love talking while others are watching, or love eating whether or not you care who's playing, the Men's Club has a party for you! Bring your whole family to the first annual Super Bowl Party at Park Avenue Synagogue on Sunday February 6 at 5:45 pm. There will be lots of deli food to eat, and a large-screen television for your viewing pleasure. The party's free to those who join the Men's Club, and just $10 for other adults; $5 for children. And if you would like to make February 6 a Super Mitzvah Sunday, rather than just an ordinary day, come to the 9:00 am Minyan. There, members and friends of the Men's Club will participate in the "World Wide Wrap," when men in Conservative shuls worldwide make a special point of laying Tefillin together.

Sisterhood: Come and Discuss a Good Book

On Monday, February 7 at 11:00 am, stretch your mind at the Daytime Book Discussion Group, sponsored by Sisterhood but open to all. We will consider a critically acclaimed novel, The Illuminated Soul by Aryeh Lev Stollman. "a thoughtful, resonant examination of Jewish life in the aftermath of the Holocaust." To join the discussion, please call Renee Waldinger at (212) 860-4308.

Sisterhood: Be Inspired by the Yiddish World of Eastern Europe

Between the 1880's and the 1920's more than two million Jews came to the United States, most of them Yiddish-speaking Jews from Eastern Europe. On Tuesday, February 15 at 1:00 pm, join Sisterhood to view and discuss the documentary film, A Yiddish World Remembered. This film, narrated by the actor Elliot Gould, presents the rich tapestry of Eastern European Jewish life in all of its economic, cultural, intellectual, and spiritual aspects. Illustrated by rarely seen vintage photographs and film footage and accompanied by traditional klezmer and cantorial music, this documentary is a wonderful tribute to a now vanished world. All are invited to attend; a light lunch will be provided.

WEG: Money Sense for Women

Join WEG on Monday, February 28 at 7:30 pm for refreshments and at 8:00 pm for guest speaker Dorothy Stiles, Regional Sales Manager for Women & Co.®, a division of Citigroup, who will lead a discussion especially geared to women. Dorothy is a Certified Financial Planner with 20 years experience in the Financial Service industry. Come and learn the numbers that can really change your life.

Synagogue Family

February B'nai Mitzvah

Zoe Stahl

February 5, 2005

Zoe Stahl's Jewish education began at the Park Avenue Synagogue Early Childhood Center when she was barely three years old, and she has been studying at The Congregational School since Kindergarten days. After her Bat Mitzvah, she plans to continue studying at the P.A.S. Hebrew High School.

Zoe is in the seventh grade at the Brearley School where her favorite subjects are English, Latin and history. Outside of school, Zoe enjoys reading, listening to music, movies, basketball, soccer, hanging out with friends and family, and traveling. During the summer, she attends Camp Tamakwa in Huntsville, Ontario, where she loves to windsurf, sail and go on long canoe trips (last summer a 10-day!). Zoe is looking forward to her Bat Mitzvah when she will chant the Torah portion Mishpatim and the Haftarah from Jeremiah. She would like to thank all of her P.A.S. teachers and the clergy for their guidance in preparing her for her Bat Mitzvah.

Daniel Charrow

February 19, 2005

Daniel Charrow first became part of the Park Avenue Synagogue community when his Brit Milah was celebrated in the Appelman Chapel. He began his formal education at the P.A.S. Early Childhood Center, and has

Daniel is in the seventh grade at Hunter College High School. He plays keyboards in the jazz band and is active in the filmmaking club. He enjoys playing ice hockey in the winter at Chelsea Piers and roller hockey during summers at Camp Greylock in the Berkshires.

Tetzaveh, Daniel's Torah portion, describes the processes for making the Ark and robes to be worn by the priests. His Haftarah portion is taken from Ezekiel. In it, the prophet describes how to make and consecrate the altar.

Daniel sincerely thanks Rabbis Lincoln and Stern, and Cantors Lefkowitz and Abramson for their guidance in reaching his Bar Mitzvah, and his family for their love and support.

Daniel Bernstein

February 26, 2005

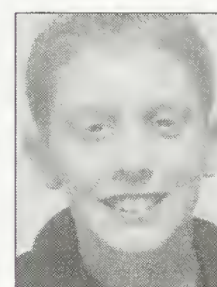

Daniel Bernstein, a student in Park Avenue Synagogue's Congregational School since first grade and a seventh grader at Collegiate, is freshly returned from the congregational trip to Israel. Daniel is proud of his Jewish heritage and honored to be reading from Ki Tisa, the story of the Golden Calf, highlighting the challenge to faith posed by material temptation. Daniel enjoys his studies, especially history and mathematics, where he excels. He is a sports enthusiast, enjoying cross-country running, baseball, basketball, tennis and golf at school and at Camp Cedar in Maine, where he spends the summer. A member of student government, Daniel is a leader in organizing support for the Coalition for the Homeless and other charitable causes. Daniel is grateful to the clergy, his teachers, his family and his friends for their support as his Bar Mitzvah approaches. He looks forward to sharing this occasion with them and to donating a portion of his gifts to charity.

Gregory Benjamin Miller

February 26, 2005

No matter the activity, Greg jumps in with both feet. Greg began his education at the P.A.S. Early Childhood Center. He is an active, involved and fun young man who loves to make others laugh. He enjoys playing tennis and travel baseball, and he is on the Horace Mann School's basketball team. He is a great role model for his two brothers.

Greg's Torah portion, Ki Tisa, tells the story of Moses' returning from Mount Sinai to find the Jewish people worshipping a golden calf. Moses is enraged and breaks the Tablets containing the Ten Commandments. The people are ashamed and renounce idolatry. In Greg's Haftarah portion, Elijah also convinces the people to reject idols and to reaffirm that there is one G-d.

Greg is extremely appreciative of the guidance he has received from the clergy and all of his teachers.

Rothschild Library News

It has often been said that a person's values can be derived from their expenditures and/or bookshelves. This truism can be extended to congregations. What can you learn, then, about Park Avenue Synagogue from visiting the Rothschild Library? Certainly that we value books and learning, that remembering our past is paramount to us, as is never forgetting the Six Million.

I hope, however, that another set of messages is coming through: The most important entities in this Library are you. If you are the parent of a young child, we have children's storytelling, books and furniture just your size, as well as support for the weary parent. For young students, we have a brand new display case—just your size—filled with exciting books about the lives and adventures of Jewish kids your age, all over the world. For individuals with vision limitations, we are building a collection of audio-books as well as a comfortable listening space. And for the rest of us, our periodicals section now features The New York Times, Biblical Archeology Review, and Lilith, a Jewish women's magazine.

In the Code of Jewish Law we read the following, "To what is [the moment of] death compared? To the burning of a Scroll of the Torah. For there is none so worthless in Israel who did not possess some knowledge of the Torah and perform some good deeds." People who each possess a little piece of Torah flourish best when they avail themselves of the places where they can find their likeness: in synagogue, and the Rothschild Library. Come and learn how important you are.

Library Director

2007-2008 B'nai Mitzvah Dates

Dates will be assigned in spring 2005. All Day School families should contact Rabbi Stern (369-2600, ext. 123) to ensure that their children are included in the roster; Congregational School students will be included automatically.

News From Our Schools

Congregational School

by Renee Ghert-Zand, Education Director

Jewish Education in Action – Literally!

Those who are familiar with our Congregational School know that the arts figure prominently in our curriculum. Students have regular music, visual arts and drama classes. However, they also explore Judaism and Jewishness through movement in rikkud (Israeli dance) and KAPAP (Krav Panim El Panim – Israeli martial arts). Iris Cohen, our talented rikkud teacher, exposes the children in Gan through Hay to basic Israeli folk dance steps, as well as more contemporary choreographies. This year, we are offering KAPAP with teacher Albert Timen to our Vav and MATAN sheni students as a way of introducing them to an aspect of Israeli society with which they may not otherwise gain experience.

In both classes, the children get a chance to move their bodies and get their energy out after a long day of secular school and Congregational School. Kinesthetic learning is one of the ways of knowing put forth by Harvard professor Howard Gardner in his highly influential Multiple Intelligences theory. Many of us need to move around while learning, with the movement helping us to process, internalize and remember knowledge. It is also interesting to note that there is anecdotal evidence that young Jews who participate in Israeli and Jewish folk dancing form especially positive memories of their Jewish educational experience, as well as a very strong Jewish identity and connection to Israel.

I can guarantee that visitors to our school will see Jewish education in action in all our classrooms – but they will see it in the most literal sense in rikkud and KAPAP sessions!

Our Unforgettable Experience

On Saturday evening, December 18, 123 Park Avenue Synagogue members of all ages boarded an El Al flight for Israel. By the time the group returned on December 27, we felt closer to each other and to the land of Israel than we ever thought possible.

Throughout the trip, our members absorbed memories that will last forever. Whether it was of our youngest children running through the streets of Old Jerusalem on a scavenger hunt, cheering in the stands at a professional basketball game in Tel Aviv, riding in jeeps on the Burma Road and triumphantly entering Jerusalem, meeting with Ethiopians at a settlement house or the moving services at the Kotel and at Shira Hadasha, there was a "feeling of kehillah, of connection with all the other members of our community," says Brian Lustbader. Dennis Karr remembers "traveling through the lush farmland of the Negev desert to the military base, and the generosity, kindness and sheer ability of the soldiers who are about to enter Gaza at any time." Another special highlight of the trip was the Bar/Bat Mitzvah held in a Conservative synagogue when 10 of our children celebrated their B'nai Mitzvah with 4 special needs Israeli children. Cloaked in white tallitot, the 13-year-olds from New York City helped wind leather tefillin straps around the arms of the Israelis and read aloud from the Torah. The Israeli teenagers led the service's prayers. Says Henry Glanternik,

Purim prep

It's hard to believe that it is February and I am already talking about Purim, but our High School students are furiously preparing for the event. The Lower Level will soon be transformed into a carnival wonderland created by our High School students as both an addition to the Park Avenue Synagogue community and as a vehicle through which the High School can make a real contribution to the Food Pantry program.

Additionally, this year, our committee – headed by Candice Michalowicz, Ellie Bressman, and Marissa Solomon — has decided to take our act “on the road.” We will be using some of our proceeds to recreate a smaller version of the carnival as a spring event for the children staying at the Ronald McDonald House. The committee's commitment to making this event a benefit to other children in need is a testament to how they have internalized this experience and how it has manifested into a dedication to Tikkun Olam.

In order to reach our fundraising goals, our students are already canvassing the neighborhood for donations to include in our raffle and silent auction. Last year's prizes included a year's supply of ice cream from Cold Stone Creamery, two tickets to a Knicks game, and an incredible array of toys and video games from KB Toys. Additionally, several students have been researching and purchasing materials to guarantee that our new games and activities will be successful and fun!

This project is an incredible undertaking that includes all of our High School students – starting in December and continuing through the carnival in March. Their hard work on food, decorations, booths and prizes ensures that it will be an amazing day that your child will not soon forget. So – SAVE THE DATE!!! Purim Carnival 2005 will be on March 6 – watch your mailbox for more exciting details!

Kol Nidre Appeal 2004/5765

On behalf of the Officers and Board of Trustees, I would like to thank all those who have given to our annual Kol Nidre Appeal between November 18, 2004 and December 27, 2004. Your generous donations help Park Avenue Synagogue maintain the level of our dynamic programming and community social action efforts, such as the Food Pantry.

The Kol Nidre Appeal is one of the most important Synagogue-wide fundraising campaigns that we conduct each year, and the funds that are raised help the annual Synagogue operating budget in countless ways. We are under new financial pressure because:

- Membership dues account for only 38% of the operating budget;
- Our security and insurance costs have more than tripled in the last 3 years;
- Maintaining our inspiring sanctuary and landmark facility, parts of which date back to 1927, requires constant attention and improvement.

More than ever we need your generous contributions. Again, our heartfelt thanks to those who have given. If you have not yet had the opportunity to make a Kol Nidre pledge, we look forward to hearing from you.

All Good Things Run Their Course

Dr Sheila Erlich has led our Bereavement Group for the past several years and, as is the case with many such groups, they have their cycles. The last session of the P.A.S. Bereavement Group took place on Monday, January 10. We thank Dr. Erlich for her dedication, professionalism and for volunteering her time, and we wish the very best to all those who have participated in the group and benefited from her wisdom and insight.
